Washington D.C. - The Government of Saint Lucia through the Ministry of Education, Sustainable Development, Innovation, Science, Technology and Vocational Training, in collaboration with World Education Inc., Tuskegee University and the Sir Arthur Lewis Community College (SALCC) recently formally launched a two-year initiative dubbed Saint Lucia ConnectEd. This project is aimed at strengthening digital literacy amongst Saint Lucian youth by providing educators with the necessary skills to utilize digital tools in both the virtual space and physical classrooms. The project is funded through a US$1 million grant from the United States Agency for International Development (USAID).

The Embassy of Saint Lucia in Washington, DC was commended for its active engagement with US authorities on education, that ultimately resulted in this initiative.
